To more realistically depict 1945, I did some extensive research to find a battle in history similar to the one in the past volume. However, although everyone remembers the event, everyone has a different memory of what happened. It's hard to explain in a short paragraph. The recent earthquake is a good example. Although the reporters in the media have their own perspective of the earthquake, what happened is beyond what we can imagine. Consequently, I think we should continue to pray, continue to think, and persevere to do what we must do.
